Karin Blumer, Dr. med.vet., Dr. phil.

German veterinarian and philosopher

After completion of academic studies at the Ludwig-Maximilians-University Munich and the Jesuit Faculty for Philosophy/Munich she worked as freelance science journalist and policy advisor. In 2001 she joined Novartis International in Basel where she has held a variety of different positions in R&D policy, public affairs and science communication. She is currently Director Science Communication and Policy.

Her professional areas of expertise include digital health, the responsible use of health data, bioethics, animal research, strategic science communication, corporate governance and compliance.

She is member of the European industry's task force on animal research policies at EFPIA, the European Federation of Pharmaceutical Industries and Associations and chairs the International Policy Committee of the Institute for Laboratory Animal Research Council at the National Academies of the USA.

Karin Blumer authored two interdisciplinary PhD treatises on the ethics of animal research and the philosophy of risk and lectures at the University Basel on bioethical issues.
